Survey of Reference Collections of O.U. Library

The checking of the Library's holdings of books listed in Winchell's Guide to Reference Books, 7th edition, and Supplement 1950-52, a project started by the Reference Department over a year ago, has been completed. The approximate 6,650 titles included in the two volumes were selected with a large general reference library in mind, and all, except the 950 items listed in the Supplement, were published before 1950. The list is inclusive rather than selective, including both monumental sets and brief reprints, complete and concise editions, and publications in many foreign languages.

The first study was based upon the total items listed. A sampling of some subject fields shows that O.U. holds the following percentage of entries:

	Winchell	Supplement	Combined
Bibliography	27	45	30
Biography	33	44	34
Fine Arts	49	46	49
Geography	22	42	24
History	36	40	36
Language Dictionaries	36	29	35
Language & Literature	58	60	58
Philosophy	28	13	24
Psychology	59	33	53
Science	58	76	61
Applied Science	52	50	52
Social Science	46	53	48
Total percentage	43	46	43
Total, excluding subjects not taught at O.U.	44	48	45

The weakness of this type of survey is that the same weight is given to each entry regardless of cost, and no consideration is given the language in which the item is published. Therefore, an additional study was made of the Library's holdings of English language publications. This raised the percentage considerably in a number of fields.

Still another approach was made by studying the date of publication of the English language items not found at O.U. It was found that a high percentage of items missing from our collection was published during the years 1930-1939. The absence of such items can be ascribed to the low budget during those years.

After considering the results of the Winchell study, the Library Administrative Council concluded that the general library should be responsible for acquisitions in certain subject areas, namely, bibliography, biography, encyclopedias, periodicals and newspapers. In addition, it would acquire the general works in the more specialized subject fields. The Council also decided that a member of the Acquisitions Department should confer with the chairmen or library committees of the various departments about reference works in their fields which the library does not have. The departmental chairmen will be notified of any new reference works added in their fields. It is hoped that in this manner the selection of basic reference tools may be standardized and improved.

Visitors to the Library

The Bizzell Bible Collection has had many recent visitors, including Mr. J.A. Strain, of California, who spent two days in the Collection inspecting several rare items. Mr. Strain is a collector, who is now on a tour of institutions holding rare bibles and related materials.

A Kaleidoscopic View of Library Growth

The university librarian sometimes is referred to slightly as a student of the backs of books by his colleagues in the classroom, implying that he has no real interest in their contents. In our more good-natured moments (if I may presume to speak for all of our staff), we are inclined to agree that there may at least be a grain of truth in this scandalous libel, for we constantly see a great many interesting books on a very wide range of subjects--selected incidentally by our critical but scholarly colleagues--yet have little time to more than glance at them as they pass. It is a constant temptation to forget that as librarians we have a choice of several highly specialized fields for research ourselves in which we should maintain activity--such as bibliographical control of information, communication, the history of ideas, or even the peculiar habits of our supposedly more profound brethren of the classroom in their often stumbling efforts to find certain information necessary for a research project--and for the librarian therefore to become a shallow philosopher, an amateur of all fields, or otherwise lose his sense of proportion.

Nevertheless the librarian by the nature of his work is in a very fortunate position. His storehouse of information is the one common meeting ground for the academic community, a cohesive force in a world made up of many little empires and sooner or later he becomes acquainted with them all. Merely by looking at the new books coming into his domain he can secure a better idea of the immense breadth and depth of the scholarly activities carried on by his institution, for the books he sees were selected by the faculty to meet specific needs. Just looking at the flow of titles gives an inspiring idea of what the University is about, an insight hardly possible from any other viewpoint.

Looking at a booktruck (a three-shelf bookstack on wheels) of new books in the Acquisitions Department reveals the real scope and purpose of the University. Here is critical work just published on Faulkner--The tangled fire of William Faulkner--a study of our current literary culture advancing the thesis that contrary to usual opinion Faulkner employs a variety of stylization based on several traditional narrative forms. Next to it stands a slim volume Substances naturelles de synthèse, vol. 7 of a series, produced at Paris in 1953, containing formulas for synthesizing cortisone, one of our modern wonder drugs useful against arthritis. It was bought for Chemistry.

Next comes a work entitled Current trends in information theory, published in 1953, which turns out to be a collection of essays by seven social psychologists. Is social psychology winning the domain of social behavior in its struggle with social anthropology, sociology, et al, and now eyeing new fields to conquer? Incongruously, the next book comes from Munich, Formschöne Lampen und Beleuchtungsanlagen, and deals with well-shaped lamps and lighting systems, acquired for Architecture, and with pictures of many striking light fixtures. Then three paper-bound geological items in various languages, from Taiwan, Rio de Janeiro, and Wiesbaden: probably O.G.S. exchange items; maybe one of our graduates will be there someday?

Standing next is a peculiar little work entitled New light on the history of great American fortunes (N.Y., 1953), which turns out to have a long very interesting introduction giving the history of the study of this phenomenon, but to consist principally of a reprint of a N.Y. Tribune monthly, American Millionaires, a list of millionaires originally issued in 1892. Arrangement of the names is by states, with occupations specified. Under New Mexico are listed three millionaires "Wilson Waddingham--made in banking, cattle raising and lands"--he later went broke and I acquired a few of his archives when I was librarian at the University; T.B. Catron, made in law and land grants--who died not a millionaire leaving $600,000 in uncollectable loans--a time honored practice of older New Mexico politicians; and A. Staab, wholesaler, unknown to me. For Oklahoma the author lists no names but in apology predicts: "There will be plenty of fortunes in Oklahoma in due time. But they are unknown now." Who are the many qualifiers to this select circle in Oklahoma today?

The Annual review of nuclear science, vol. 4, stands next; too full of arrows, formulas, curves, Greek letters and symbols to be comprehensible, and best passed over. Then comes a government document, Foreign relations of the United States, Diplomatic papers, 1938 (in five volumes). Volume III, the Far East. A little slow in publication (on purpose, I understand, to avoid giving useful information) but only three years before Pearl Harbor. Then two works on mental matters, Music therapy 1953 (a yearbook), and Psychoanalytic interpretation in Rorschach testing (ink blots).

Proceeding more hurriedly, three DeGolyer items, the Englishman Singer's long awaited and urgently needed History of technology, published at Oxford. Little in this field and this is just volume 1, covering only up to the fall of the ancient empires; a long wait ahead for the rest, if he lives long enough. Then a history of Leibnizian mathematics, in German, another Munich publication, of 1949. Then Davy's Elements of chemical philosophy, part 1, vol.1, 1812--where's v.2? A note by the cataloger who searched the title says this was all published. A popular account, by one of the great men in the story of electrical aspects of matter.

Next The 1954 CQ almanac, a record of the past congress, legislation introduced, tables of votes on important measures, etc.--a valuable reference tool for students of government. Unbiased? Issued by Congressional Quarterly; should be. Then Lugones's Obras poeticas completas, a beautiful little work better printed than some Madrid publications; who is he? Then the Annual collected papers, 1954, of the American Society of Tool Engineers, containing articles on "The challenge of automation," "Changing trends in mechanical fasteners," etc.

Then a copy of our Institute of Community Development's master plan for the Oklahoma capitol, side by side with the multilithed proceedings of the recent institute on crime investigation. A new subject in our Extension Division's highly successful institute series, of direct value to the state. Another neat and comely job by the O.U. duplicating service, complementing our University Press well in the small edition field. A work Seismicity of the earth (earthquakes!) which turns out to be for Physics instead of Geology. Next a book of color plates La tapisserie française, Paris, showing Aubusson and other tapestries from the earliest time, to the present; imported through a dealer in Philadelphia.

A history of industrial education in Oklahoma, c1954 and published at Tahlequah; on the verso of the title page, a note that it was presented towards the Doctor of Education degree at O.U. in 1952. And finally two regional history items, F.J. Rowbotham's A trip to prairie-land, being a glance at the shady side of emigration, published in London, 1880; and a little pamphlet, A history of Jefferson -Texas-, undated but modern, with the touching note on the title page, "A portion of the proceeds of sale to be used in the upkeep of Oakwood Cemetery"; why the cemetery? At 60¢ per copy this poor little work didn't produce much for either author or cemetery; Jefferson is near the Red River, and such slight works are often grist for historians through lack of any other. Last a set of Paul Horgan's Great river, the Rio Grande, a gift to O.U., just published, very favorably reviewed. Written by a personal friend of mine; I'll love to read--later!

What does this haphazard catalogue prove? A similar listing tomorrow would be quite different, but just as diverse in subject, in as many languages, from as many countries. Books are not so often on the forefront of research; they tend to be issued later than and to draw from periodical articles, but journal titles newly bound were skipped here. These articles in journals would cover an even broader range of subjects but also be on much narrower topics. The chief reaction that I have in a browsing excursion such as this is one of continued pleasure and renewed confidence in O.U. as a great university. It is pleasant to be a student of title pages occasionally!

Purchases with the General Research Fund

Another excellent group of files and sets has been ordered on the General Research Fund this fiscal year. We are particularly pleased to see these back files of scholarly journals and publications of learned societies coming into the library collections, since this is our area of greatest need. These titles were recommended by the various instructional departments; since there were six times as many items suggested as there was money in the fund, the first selection was done by the Committee on University Libraries, then when the bids were received, a sub-committee decided which were the best bids and approved the placing of orders.

The departments recommending the various titles have been notified but others also may like to see what some of the notable additions were because several cover more than one field. A half-dozen or so of the outstanding acquisitions for each broad field are listed below. All purchases complete our files unless otherwise noted.

Whitman Exhibit in Library

In celebration of the 100th anniversary of the first printing of Walt Whitman's Leaves of Grass, the Library is fortunate in being able to schedule an exhibit of about 50 photostat manuscripts by Whitman, loaned by the Charles E. Feinberg Foundation of Detroit. Also in the exhibit will be issues of the Conservator, a periodical published by Whitman's disciple and friend, Horace Traubel, from 1890-1919. A file of the Conservator was recently presented to the Library by the Feinberg Foundation in memory of Horace and Anne Montgomerie Traubel. The gift of the Conservator file has filled a serious gap in the Library's collection, since we are not strong in Whitman material and are grateful for this addition. The loan of the exhibit will point up the kind of material we could have in the collection, and should stimulate interest in one of this country's most important literary figures.

Other Whitman materials in the exhibit are the facsimile reproduction of the first edition of Leaves of Grass and the 3-volume edition of the work which was published in 1923 under the editorship of Traubel.

Annual Award Established by SE Oklahoma District of DAR

Competency in the use of archival materials is the subject of an annual award which has been established by the SE Oklahoma District of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The award, a fifty dollar savings bond, was established this year and made at a special luncheon held on the campus on Statehood Day, November 16. Winner was Mr. Elbert L. Watson of East Gadsden, Alabama whose master's thesis in the field of history involved extensive use of six major archival collections in the Division of Manuscripts. Runners-up for the award were Miss Barbara Wunsch and Mr. William Finch. Directors of each of the three theses, members of the library staff, and others on the campus shared in the DAR ceremonies highlighting the use of archives in the study of Oklahoma by graduate students in the several fields of the social sciences.

Folger Shakespeare Library Exhibit

The Library is fortunate to have been included on the travelling exhibit list of the Folger Shakespeare Library. This exhibit may be seen in the corridor of the General Library until December 14th.

The Folger Shakespeare Library is a research institution dedicated to the advancement of learning in literature and history. It has the largest collection in the Western Hemisphere of English books printed before the middle of the seventeenth century. Almost any significant topic in the history of English civilization in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries--that important period when England was establishing colonies in America and laying the foundations of American society--can be studied in the rare books of the Folger Library.

This particular exhibit includes a copy of each of Shakespeare's first four folios, two of the quartos and other interesting Shakesperian material.

The faculty and students are cordially invited to visit the Library to see an excellent exhibit.

General Research Fund - Progress Report

Requests for purchase on the General Research Fund of needed back files of journals, serial publications of learned societies and monumental sets totalled approximately $58,000 in estimated costs. Reluctantly but necessarily the Committee on University Libraries reduced the number of titles for which quotations are being asked from dealers. This bid list was mailed to the dealers on November 18 with the deadline for offers set for December 18. Final decisions as to the specific titles which are to be purchased from the unallocated $10,000 General Research Fund will be made by the Committee between December 20-22.

"Little things make history"

While in Nebraska last week to talk to the Nebraska Library Association, I ran across an item in the Omaha World Herald, purporting to come from Bad-Godesburg-on-the-Rhine, which was a highly effective advertisement for imagination in historical research. Three visiting professors of history from America advanced three theories:

"Germany owes its greatness as a world power during the past century to the potato."

Spain, France and England "owed their rise ... to the absence of bath tubs in Europe."

"America owes its position today as the number one world power primarily to one plant: Indian corn."

Each professor then explained his theory. Prussia had sandy plains which were not good for usual European crops; when it was discovered that potatoes would thrive there the increased food supply allowed an enormous growth in Prussian population. ... Since Europeans did not have bath tubs, they tended to be smelly, and to cover up the smelliness they used spices and perfumes. But the perfumes had to be imported at great expense from India, so they set about finding a shorter route to the Indies and accidentally discovered America in the process. With this discovery the center of gravity in Europe shifted from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic, leading to the rise of England, France and Spain. ... Corn enabled the Midwest to be settled rapidly and to support 80 million people. Corn, or indirectly corn fed to pigs, became the staple diet and corncobs supplied fuel, mattresses, and paper in a land where paper was scarce. The U.S. would have only 90 million people instead of 160 million except for Indian corn.

Graduate Study Collection

The books making up a Graduate Study Collection, which have been shelved in the alcove on the sixth floor of the library, are being returned to the stacks. Clearing this area has been requested by the Physical Plant in order that installation of air-conditioning may be begun. Since faculty and graduate students have access to the stacks and also may be assigned carrels it is hoped that they will not be inconvenienced by this change. I am sure the realization of air-conditioning in the library will far outweigh the loss of this particular space.

"Nothing's so hard but search will find it out."--Jonson.

The Reference Department's interlibrary loan service recently received a request for:

"A book about five eighths of an inch thick, measuring approximately 6 x 9 inches in width and height, respectfully, and dark red in color. Its subject matter in phonetics - it has the word in the title and was used by the Dramatic School in voice classes in about 1933-1934."

We found a book that answered the description.

Architecture Library Acquisition Note

The Architecture Library has acquired the first fourteen volumes of Mangwa, a pictorial encyclopaedia of Japanese life, which was published in fifteen volumes from 1812 to 1875. This work, which is world-famous, is illustrated by Hokusai (1760-1849) one of the greatest of all Japanese painters.

Other Acquisitions Notes

The Historical Register, v.1-23(1716-38) and its two volume complement (1724) were recently acquired for the History Department. The first 30 volumes of the Strand Magazine (1891-1905) are being cataloged for the English Department.

The Geology Library has acquired two partial back files: Transactions of the Edinburgh Geological Society for 1880-1916 and 1939; and the first ten volumes of the Bulletin of the Société géologique et minéralogique de Bretagne, Rennes.

A complete file of the Journal of projective techniques (1936 to date) has been purchased for Psychology. As soon as several volumes are rebound the 37 volume set of Thieme-Becker Allgemeines Lexikon der Bildenden Kuenstler von der Antike bis zur Gegenwart (1911-47) will be available in the Reference Department of the General Library.

Egyptian painting, another of the beautiful Skira volumes in the Great centuries of painting series is being added to the Art Library. The Drama Library's Monumenta scenica, the art of the theatre (1954) is not only a beautiful book but is interesting in format. - 24"x18".

Oklahoma Library Association Meeting

An open meeting of the Executive Board and the Select Committee for State Planning of the Oklahoma Library Association met on campus Thursday, October 14, 1954, for an all day conference. The Association discussed a proposed legislative program for the improvement of public libraries in Oklahoma. Approximately one hundred librarians representing public libraries in all parts of the state discussed methods of securing increased support and of organizing libraries on a broader basis than the local community.

Mrs. Gretchen Schenk, nationally known consultant on county and regional libraries, participated in the discussions and spoke at the luncheon. Mr. Stanley McElderry, Assistant Director of Libraries, and Mr. Mortimer Schwartz, Law Librarian, are members of the Select Committee for State Planning which sponsored the conference.

(S, McE.)

Oklahoma Catalogers Meeting

The OU campus seemingly is a popular meeting place for librarians. Thirty-one of them interested in cataloging met for dinner October 22 and organized the Oklahoma Regional Group of Catalogers. The elected officers are: Chairman, Miss Edith Scott (OU); Vice-Chairman, Mr. William Lowry (Oklahoma City Public Library); Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Alice Phelps Pattee (Oklahoma A. & M.).

After the business meeting, Mr. Richard Chapin, Assistant Director for the Library School, spoke on "The Future of the Catalog."

Archivists Attend Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Society of American Archivists, in Williamsburg, Virginia, September 12-14, the University was represented by Dr. Gaston Litton and Mr. J.M. Babcock, of the Division of Manuscripts. Dr. Litton, who has been for several years a member of the Society's Committee on College and University Archives, participated in a panel discussion on the problems of collegiate record units. On their return trip, Messrs. Litton and Babcock inspected the new records center operated by the North Carolina Department of Archives and History at Raleigh.
